

Imagine designing a room for your wedding; where you determine the decor, the shape, the flooring, and the dimensions; in fact the entire production. The beauty of a marquee wedding gives you, the couple, the opportunity to set a tone of elegance and sophistication that is completely unique.

According to Flor. J Madden from Weddings at Home, an all inclusive high-end marquee wedding company, "No two marquees are the same. Each marquee wedding is done especially for the couple. You have complete freedom."

With a marquee you have the opportunity to be married wherever you want, but most people choose to be married at home. "People are spending more and more time and money on their home gardens, creating a great venue in which to hold a wedding," enthuses Madden.

If the thought of having 200 people tromping through your front door and having a zillion service staff using your kitchen is frightening, no need to worry. Marquee professionals provide a full service including erecting your marquee, catering to your every whim; taking care of your entire event without even entering your home. They can clean up and take down everything within days and leave your garden in pristine condition. "If you are doing a marquee wedding," according to Flor, "it's easier to choose an all inclusive wedding package, where everything from the champagne to the five star butler service is taken care of."

A first class professional will afford you a top notch service, and leave nothing to chance.

"There are a lot of logistics involved in a marquee wedding and plenty of things to think about. However with us, there's no stress. We take care of everything for you, nothing goes unnoticed, so you don't have to worry about a thing," he says.

"Marquee weddings are for people who want something more and something unique."

Choosing a marquee even means you have full reign. This means with decor you choose from no less than 60 different types of flooring, various linings, seat covers, lighting, etc. Another fab plus is no worries about matching hotel décor, sticking to stuffy pub licensing laws or closing times.

"Marquee weddings are for people who want something more and something unique."

Having fresh flowers, an eight dish buffet, crisp, laundered linens on the table, a complimentary Irish coffee at midnight and a white tie butler service are the type of details that make marquee weddings an exclusive experience and will keep guests talking about your wedding in years to come.

Ok, marquee weddings are more expensive, but if you want a wedding that will stand apart and stand alone, then it's the ideal choice.

"Marquee weddings are more expensive, but what you get makes them stand apart from any other type of venue; every detail taken care of and a wedding that people will never forget," Madden says.
